

What would you do as a web designer..?

Web designing to me is more than a career path. It is a way of life specifically for those committed to the world wide web and also committed to creating powerful web graphics, designs and solutions and impacting on others those solutions both entrepreneurially and otherwise.

As a web designer, my most important job is to master the idea behind creating a web page, not only studying the languages used in creating web pages but having and developing a creative mindset that is in synchronization with the rapidly growing world of dynamic web pages. Meeting up to the standards of great web designers, learning, practicing and devoting my time to the web.

I intend to keep improving myself bearing in mind that our limits are only what we make of ourselves. Understanding not only how to build these pages but also understanding how the elements of building these pages work.

I'll make sure no programming language used in web design is new to me as I will strive to have a basic knowledge of other helpful languages used in web design apart from the core languages which I will study to have a mastery of them.

Apart from just creating these powerful web pages, I'll try to use this knowledge I'm acquiring to affect not only the people around me but the world at large in an inspiring way, to make an impact in the lives of others as a web designer not only proficient in the job description but able to impress and inspire others to join the ever-growing world of web designing and programming and maybe, hopefully I can change the world; After all, WE ONLY LIVE ONCE.

So Help Me GOD.
